

Yorkshire Water fined £1.6M for sewage pollution

Yorkshire Water has been fined £1,600,750 for polluting a Bradford watercourse in a prosecution brought by the Environment Agency. It was also ordered to pay a victim surcharge of £170 and £22,112.79 in costs.

Extreme heat: Environment Agency calls on public to help protect fish

Environment Agency officers are on the ground protecting fisheries across England as temperatures soar.

Exhibition of Beer's flood history to open in Devon

Lessons learned from historic flooding are to be shared with the current generation to urge them to act now and protect their own loved ones and property.

Proposed change to how Hinkley Point C stores radioactive waste

The Environment Agency has launched a consultation on the way radioactive waste will be stored at Hinkley Point C nuclear power station near Bridgwater.

Riverside Resource Recovery Facility, Belvedere Permit Variation

Public Consultation is now open