Trade opening for Ukraine: Joint Statement by Commissioner Malmström and Deputy Minister Mykolska

In a joint statement, European Commissioner for Trade Cecilia Malmström and Trade Representative of Ukraine – Deputy Minister for Economic Development and Trade Nataliya Mykolska welcome the entry into force of the autonomous trade measures of the European Union for Ukraine on 1 October.

“This is good news for Ukrainian exporters. Several important agricultural and industrial goods will now get better access to the EU market, as they can be exported tariff-free.

This is an important sign of the EU’s continued, tangible economic and political support for the Ukrainian people, the country and its reform efforts.

The EU Regulation on autonomous trade measures will top up the quantities of agricultural products that Ukraine can export to the EU under the Association Agreement without paying customs duties. It will also accelerate the elimination of EU import tariffs for several industrial products, as foreseen in the Association Agreement.

In terms of agricultural products, Ukraine will have an opportunity to export bigger quantities of wheat, maize, barley, oats and barley groats and pellets to the EU without customs tariffs. The proposal creates opportunities to export bigger amounts of processed tomatoes, natural honey and grape juice duty-free to the EU. These trade preferences will also benefit industrial sectors, for example Ukrainian producers of footwear, fertilisers, aluminium products and consumer electronics.

We welcome the positive effects of the EU-Ukraine Association Agreement and its Deep and Comprehensive Free Trade Area (DCFTA), which constitutes a blueprint for reform and fosters trade and investment. In the first half of this year – according to Eurostat – trade in goods between the EU and Ukraine increased by 23% and the EU continues to strengthen its position as the first trade partner of Ukraine. Overall, the European Union accounts for around 40% of Ukraine’s total exports and we are convinced that this additional trade opening will give a further boost in fostering strong trade ties between the EU and Ukraine, and support further expansion of Ukrainian exports to the EU, following the trade restrictions imposed by Russia.

The EU and Ukraine continue to work to ensure the opportunities and benefits for EU and Ukrainian business within the framework of the DCFTA”.

Additional liberalizations for barley, wheat and maize will start applying as from 1 January 2018.

Juncker Plan: €700 million for SMEs in Greece

The Investment Plan for Europe – the Juncker Plan – is supporting small businesses in Greece. Piraeus Bank will lend €700 million to SMEs in Greece thanks to an agreement signed today with the European Investment Bank (EIB), the European Investment Fund (EIF) and the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development (EBRD). This deal is backed by the Investment Plan's European Fund for Strategic Investments (EFSI). Commissioner Moscovici, responsible for Economic and Financial Affairs, Taxation and Customs, said: "Today's agreement with Piraeus Bank under the Juncker Plan means €700 million in new financing is now available for Greek SMEs. This will give a huge boost to the economy and it shows the Commission's continued commitment to supporting growth and development in Greece." As of September 2017, operations approved under the European Fund for Strategic Investments (EFSI) are set to trigger €236.1 billion in total investment across the 28 Member States. The EIB estimates that by 2020 the Juncker Plan is set to increase EU GDP by 0.7% and create 700,000 jobs. (For more information about any of the projects and the latest Investment Plan results see the new Investment Plan website or contact

Drones: fresh efforts by the Commission to put safety first

The European Commission is today giving a push to speed up the implementation of EU-wide rules for the use of drones in the European Union. More than 1200 safety occurrences – including near-misses between drones and aircrafts – were reported in Europe in 2016, which underlines the pressing need for a modern and flexible EU regulatory framework. The Commission is therefore calling on the European Parliament and the Council to agree on its proposal from December 2015 establishing an EU-wide framework for drones. Pending this adoption, the Commission's Single European Sky Air traffic management Research Joint Undertaking \(SESAR\) is today making half a million euro available to support the demonstration of "geo-fencing" services. These can automatically prevent drones from flying into restricted zones, such as the vicinity of airports. Commissioner for Transport Violeta Bulc said, "Drones offer tremendous opportunities for new services and businesses. That is why we want Europe to be a global leader. I am confident our modern and flexible regulatory framework will give rise to new European champions in this sector. But safety always comes first. If we don't move fast enough, the near misses between drones and airplanes could one day have disastrous consequences. I am therefore calling on the European Parliament and the Council to swiftly agree on our proposal from December 2015." More information is available in a press release. Maîtriser la mondialisation: les régions vont bénéficier d'un nouveau soutien de l'UE pour bâtir des économies robustes

Les régions peuvent dès maintenant candidater pour participer à deux projets pilotes présentés par la Commission en juillet 2017. Si elles sont sélectionnées, elles pourront bénéficier d'un soutien personnalisé de l'UE pour transformer leurs économies et moderniser leurs industries. Ces projets pilotes visent à aider les régions d'Europe à davantage investir dans leurs domaines d'excellence (le processus dit de «spécialisation intelligente») et à générer l'innovation, la robustesse et la croissance nécessaires dans une économie mondialisée. La commissaire à la politique régionale Corina Crețu a déclaré: "Une région qui veut se hisser au sommet de la chaîne de valeur dans une économie mondialisée doit franchir cinq étapes: miser sur l'innovation, la numérisation et la décarbonation, développer les compétences des gens et éliminer les obstacles à l'investissement. Les projets que nous lançons aujourd'hui montrent que l'UE est prête à aider ses régions, à chaque étape." Le premier projet concerne les régions en transition industrielle et leur propose un accompagnement personnalisé dans leur transformation économique. Le second vise à développer des projets interrégionaux profitables et susceptibles de créer des chaînes de valeur européennes dans des secteurs prioritaires tels que les la bioéconomie, la mobilité connectée, la santé ou la cybersécurité. Le régime des quotas sucriers européens prend fin

Le tout dernier régime de quotas agricoles en place pour gérer la production de sucre dans l'Union européenne sera supprimé demain, après presque 50 ans d'existence. La décision de mettre fin maintenant aux quotas de sucre avait été convenue entre le Parlement européen et les États membres dans le cadre de la réforme de 2013 de la Politique Agricole Commune (PAC), à l'issue d'un vaste processus de réforme et de restructuration lancé en 2006. M. Phil Hogan, commissaire chargé de l'agriculture et du développement rural, a déclaré: «La fin du régime des quotas représente un tournant décisif pour le secteur sucrier européen et marque une nouvelle étape importante dans la mise en place d'une politique agricole commune davantage orientée vers le marché. Les producteurs auront désormais la possibilité de développer leurs activités commerciales sur les marchés mondiaux et, avec un soutien adéquat de la Commission européenne – tel que l'observatoire du marché du sucre, qui fournit des informations pertinentes et à jour sur ce marché – ils devraient avoir toutes les chances de réussir. Je suis convaincu que, depuis que la date de fin des quotas de sucre a été arrêtée, le secteur s'est bien positionné pour tirer parti des possibilités offertes par l'abolition de ce régime.» La fin du régime des quotas donne aux producteurs la possibilité d'adapter leur production aux opportunités commerciales réelles, notamment en explorant de nouveaux marchés d'exportation. Par ailleurs, elle s'accompagne d'une simplification significative de la gestion de la politique et d'un allègement considérable de la charge administrative qui pèse sur les opérateurs, les producteurs et les commerçants. De nombreuses mesures de la PAC restent en place pour soutenir le secteur en cas de besoin. Commission proposes fresh macro-financial assistance to Georgia of up to €45 million

The European Commission today proposes new Macro-Financial Assistance \(MFA\) to Georgia, worth up to €45 million. While Georgia has made significant progress with economic reforms, its macroeconomic outlook remains vulnerable. Georgia's economy is exposed to an uncertain regional and global economic outlook, and its international reserves are not yet adequate, not least due to the country's external debt level. This context has formed the basis for the proposal for further Macro-Financial Assistance. Of the total €45 million, €10 million would be provided in the form of grants and up to €35 million in medium-term loans at favourable financing conditions, helping to reduce uncertainties surrounding the economy's short-term balance of payments and fiscal issues. If adopted by the European Parliament and the Council, this assistance would help Georgia cover part of its external financing needs. Pierre Moscovici, Commissioner for Economic and Financial Affairs, Taxation and Customs, said: “Today’s proposal for additional assistance is another sign of the EU’s strong support for the Georgian people. As Georgia continues its economic transition, we are helping the country to preserve macroeconomic stability and continue the reform process, which is needed to achieve stronger and more inclusive growth.” A press release is available here. Extension of trade support to Ukraine enters into force on 1 October

As of 1 October some Ukrainian agricultural and industrial goods will be exported to the EU market tariff-free. This set of autonomous trade measures was proposed by the Commission and supported by the European Parliament and EU member States, in view of the difficult economic situation and the economic reform efforts undertaken by Ukraine. Commissioner for Trade Cecilia Malmström and the Trade Representative of Ukraine – Deputy Minister for Economic Development and Trade Nataliya Mykolska have today welcomed the entry into force of the autonomous trade measures of the EU for Ukraine. EU and FAO join forces to take action on food waste and antimicrobial resistance

Today, Commissioner for Health and Food Safety Vytenis Andriukaitis and the Director-General of Food and Agriculture Organisation of the United Nations (FAO) José Graziano da Silva agreed to ramp up collaboration between the two organisations in tackling the problems of waste in food supply chains and antimicrobial resistance. Globally, one-third of all food produce for human consumption – 1.3 billion tonnes – is lost or wasted, each year, causing massive financial losses. The increased use – and abuse – of antimicrobial medicines in both human and animal healthcare has contributed to an increase in the number of disease-causing microbes that are resistant to antimicrobial medicines used to treat them, like antibiotics. This makes AMR a growing threat that could lead to as many as 10 million deaths a year and over €85 million in losses to the global economy by 2050. Speaking at a signing ceremony at FAO's Rome headquarters, Commissioner Andriukaitis said: "Food loss and waste represent an unacceptable, unethical and immoral squandering of scarce resources and increase food insecurity, while AMR marks a grave societal and economic burden," adding: "We are becoming more united, more efficient and more strategic in how we tackle these issues, and as such, this agreement should be celebrated." New scientific report shows positive economic trends for EU fishing fleet

According to the latest Annual Economic Report, the overall economic performance of the EU fishing fleet improved again in 2015. While marginally profitable in 2009, the EU fleet registered record-high net profits of EUR 798 million in 2015 and estimates for 2016 and 2017 point towards further increases in profitability. The report also demonstrates that economic performance stagnates where fleets depend on stocks which are still overfished or overexploited. More and more fleets that exploit stocks sustainably see clear improvements in their profitability and salaries. In 2015, the EU fleet's gross value added, i.e. the contribution of the fishing sector to the economy through wages and gross profit, amounted to €3.9 billion. This represents a 16% increase compared to 2013. Average salaries in the EU fleet have also increased while average fuel consumption has decreased. Fuel use efficiency has improved, with fuel costs amounting to 15% of the total revenue in 2015, compared to 24% in 2008. This is largely because fleets tend to operate more efficiently. Karmenu Vella, Commissioner for environment, maritime affairs and fisheries, said: "It is encouraging to see that the positive trend of the last years has resulted in higher salaries for fishermen, bigger profits for the fishing sector and more value added for the EU's fishing and coastal communities. This clearly shows that our joint commitment towards more sustainable fishing pays off. But more efforts are needed to allow also small scale coastal fleets, in particular in the Mediterranean and Black Sea, to fully benefit from this positive trend." The 2017 Annual Economic Report on the EU Fishing Fleet is based on data provided by national authorities and the result of combined work by economic experts from the Scientific, Technical and Economic Committee of Fisheries and the Commission. Trade negotiations: Commission publishes report and text proposals following third negotiation round with Indonesia

As part of its commitment to a more transparent trade policy the Commission today published a report summarising the progress made during the latest negotiating round for the EU-Indonesia trade agreement. In addition, the Commission published eight initial text proposals the EU submitted to Indonesia ahead of the round, together with accompanying explanatory memos. The round report includes more details on all areas of the negotiations, including trade in goods, services, investment and technical barriers to trade. The negotiations continue to show good engagement from both partners. The teams have progressed onto text-based discussions on nearly all chapters, meaning that most issues can be covered in greater depth. The talks also provided an extensive to-do list that will be followed up ahead of the next round. The latest round of talks with Indonesia took place from 11-15 September 2017 in Brussels. The next round will be held in Indonesia at the beginning of 2018. The recent Commission proposals made in the course of the negotiations can also be accessed through the dedicated transparency page. Aides d'État: la Commission autorise quatre régimes d'aide visant à produire plus de 7,5 gigawatts d'énergie à partir de sources renouvelables

La Commission européenne a autorisé, en vertu des règles de l'UE en matière d'aides d'État, quatre régimes d'aides à la production d'électricité à partir d'installations d'éoliennes terrestres et d'installations solaires sur les bâtiments et au sol en France. Ces régimes permettront à la France de produire plus de 7 gigawatts supplémentaires d'énergie à partir de sources renouvelables et atteindre son objectif pour 2020, qui est de couvrir 23 % de ses besoins énergétiques avec des sources renouvelables. Les régimes autorisés sont les suivants: un régime en faveur de l'éolien terrestre, un régime en faveur des grandes installations photovoltaïques sur les bâtiments, un régime en faveur des grandes installations photovoltaïques au sol et un régime d'aides d'une capacité supplémentaire de 200 mégawatts pour les installations éoliennes terrestres et solaires n'excédant pas 18 mégawatts. La Commission a apprécié les quatre régimes au regard des règles de l'UE en matière d'aides d'État, qui garantissent un recours limité aux fonds publics et l'absence de surcompensation. Margrethe Vestager, Commissaire pour la politique de Concurrence, a déclaré à ce propos: «Les régimes d'aides en faveur de l'énergie solaire et éolienne terrestre à moyenne et grande échelles aideront la France à opérer sa transition vers une fourniture d'énergie durable sur le plan environnemental et à faibles émissions de carbone. Les mesures sont complétées par un appel d'offres neutre du point de vue technologique qui stimulera la concurrence entre les installations solaires et éoliennes et aidera l'UE à atteindre ses objectifs en matière d'environnement.» Un communiqué de presse est disponible en ligne.
