Une Europe qui défend et protège: la Commission lance un Fonds européen et ouvre un débat sur l'avenir de la défense européenne

La sécurité et la défense sont au cœur des attentes des citoyens européens. La Commission européenne leur répond et ouvre le débat aujourd'hui avec un document de réflexion sur l'avenir de la défense européenne qui présente trois scénarios pour renforcer la sécurité des Européens et améliorer les capacités européennes de défense d'ici à 2025. Ce document est complété par des propositions concrètes pour un Fonds européen ambitieux et novateur qui vise à encourager la coopération dans la recherche, le développement et finalement l'acquisition de technologies et produits de défense. Le Fonds devrait dégager à moyen terme 5,5 milliards d'euros par an en coordonnant, renforçant et amplifiant les investissements transnationaux. La Haute Représentante / Vice-Présidente Federica Mogherini a déclaré: «Nous avançons rapidement sur les questions de sécurité dans l'Union européenne, la Commission accompagnant et soutenant les États membres dans leur détermination. Le document de réflexion publié aujourd'hui est la contribution de la Commission aux réflexions sur l'avenir de notre Union dans ce domaine, motivées par la demande d'une défense plus efficace et plus intégrée exprimée par nos citoyens.» Le vice-président en charge de l'emploi, de la croissance, de l'investissement et de la compétitivité Jyrki Katainen a ajouté: «Le Fonds agira comme catalyseur pour une industrie européenne de défense forte, qui développe des technologies et des équipements de pointe, pleinement interopérables. Les États membres resteront aux commandes dans ce domaine, en auront plus pour leur argent et, en fin de compte, verront leur influence s'accroître.» Les premiers appels à projets pour soutenir la recherche en matière de défense européenne sont lancés dès aujourd'hui. Vendredi, le Président Juncker sera à la Conférence de Défense et de Sécurité de Prague où il reprendra ces propositions dans un discours décisif sur l'avenir de la défense européenne aux côtés du Premier ministre tchèque Bohuslav Sobotka. European Commission approves resolution of Banco Popular Español, S.A.

The European Commission has approved, under EU bank recovery and resolution rules, the resolution scheme of Banco Popular Español, S.A. based on a proposed resolution scheme by the Single Resolution Board (SRB). The resolution of Banco Popular Español, S.A. was approved under EU's bank recovery and resolution rules, as agreed in the post-crisis Banking Union framework. It involves the sale of Banco Popular Español, S.A. (BPE) to Banco Santander, a sound financial institution. The customers of Banco Popular will continue to be served with no disruption to the economy. All depositors continue to have uninterrupted access to the full amount of their deposits. Following the resolution decision, the bank can continue its business activities. No State aid nor aid from the Single Resolution Fund has been provided and the sale is subject to normal merger and regulatory review. The Commission has endorsed the resolution scheme because the conditions for resolution were met: the bank was failing, there were no private sector solutions outside of resolution and there were no supervisory actions that would have prevented its failure. Resolution by sale of business is foreseen in the Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive (BRRD) under the EU bank resolution framework. It was the best course of action to ensure the continuity of the important functions performed by the bank and to avoid significant adverse effects on financial stability. In this specific case, losses were fully absorbed by shares and subordinated debt. The resolution scheme entered into force on 7 June. Further details concerning the resolution scheme can be found here and in the SRB press release. (For more information: Vanessa Mock – Tel.: +32 229 56194; Letizia Lupini – Tel.: +32 229 51958)

EU presents its strategy for more resilient states and societies around the world

The European Commission and the High Representative/Vice-President Federica Mogherini presented today a new strategy for resilience building, aiming to move from crisis containment to a more structural and long-term approach to global challenges. It puts a particular emphasis on anticipation, prevention and preparedness. HR/VP Federica Mogherini said: “One fourth of the world’s population lives in fragile States or societies. We want to prevent these fragile situations from turning into new wars, new humanitarian catastrophes, or new refugee crises. This is what we call resilience. This Communication will help us coordinate an impressive set of different tools, that only the European Union can mobilise: from humanitarian aid to incentives for private investments, from climate action to military missions. It is a forward-looking, truly integrated approach – the only one that can work, in the complex world of today. It is the European way to peace, security and human development”. The EU has established an ambitious and transformative agenda for its external action. These include the foreign and security policy aims set out in the EU Global Strategy, international development and humanitarian goals agreed under the UN’s Agenda 2030, and commitments under the Paris Climate accord. A press release and a MEMO will be also made available. Commission approves EU financing of the Pelješac bridge in Croatia

Today the Commission is allocating €357 million of Cohesion Policy funds to build a bridge that will connect the southernmost part of the country and Dubrovnik to the rest of mainland Croatia. The construction of the Pelješac bridge, for which the EU will contribute 85% of the cost, will significantly improve the everyday life of Croatians, through reducing the travel time between Dubrovnik and Split. Commissioner for Regional policy Corina Crețu said: “We are a Commission that builds bridges – literally. This project genuinely embodies our commitment to removing barriers, uniting territories and bringing people together. I know how much this bridge is awaited by the Croatian people and I am glad that the EU, with its funds, can be a part of this new chapter in the History of the country.” The project should be completed in 2022. A press point with Commissioner Crețu, Gabrijela Žalac, Croatian Minister for regional development and EU funds and Tomislav Mihotić, State Secretary at the Croatian Ministry of the Sea, Transport and Infrastructure will take place at noon at the VIP Corner of the Berlaymont; you can follow it live on EbS. Commission registers “Stop extremism” European Citizens’ Initiative

The Commission has today decided on the partial registration of a European Citizens’ Initiative entitled “Stop extremism” inviting the Commission to “propose legislation in order to prevent the adverse consequences of extremism, above all for the Internal Market”. The Commission’s decision to register the Initiative concerns only the legal admissibility of the proposal. The Commission has not analysed its substance at this stage. The Initiative will be formally registered on 12 June 2017, which will start a one-year process of the collection of signatures of support by its organisers. Should the Initiative receive one million statements of support within one year from at least seven different Member States, the Commission will have to react within three months. EU and UNRWA sign new landmark agreement and reaffirm joint commitment to support Palestine refugees

HR/VP Mogherini said: “With its tireless work, UNRWA keeps supporting Palestine refugees, providing education, promoting socio-economic development and stability in the Middle East. The international support is key to UNRWA: the European Union will keep investing in one of the pillars of its Middle East peace policy.” Commissioner Hahn added: “The European Union is committed to support UNRWA in further reform efforts, building on the important work underway, to ensure the provision of quality core services to vulnerable Palestine refugees. The EU-UNRWA partnership will from 2017 take an increasingly visible form in support to selected schools and health clinics”. In the Joint Declaration, the European Union commits to continue assisting UNRWA in securing financial resources to enable the Agency to support Palestine refugees. EU Network of Public Employment Services – three years on: report shows success of enhanced collaboration

Today, the Commission published a report on the European Network of Public Employment Services (PES), set up three years ago. It shows that thanks to this Network, European Public Employment Services are working closer and more systematically together, to the benefit of jobseekers and employers across Europe. The Network allows Public Employment Services to collaborate, share good practice, participate in learning events to constantly improve and provide a better and more effective service for jobseekers across Europe. This enhanced collaboration does not only benefit the more than 27 million people registered with a public employment service in their country, but it also contributes to facilitating intra-EU mobility, through the public employment services' participation in the EURES-network. Public employment services at local, regional and central level notably provide guidance, assistance and support services to individual workers, also to those interested in finding a job in another EU country. For instance, in 2016, about 27.000 people found a job abroad with the help of a EURES adviser. The Network also gives a common voice to European Public Employment Services to respond to emerging challenges such as the refugee crisis. Commissioner for Employment, Social Affairs, Skills and Labour Mobility, Marianne Thyssen, said: "Public Employment Services are key players in the fight against unemployment. The PES Network allows employment services of Member States to join forces in getting people into jobs. The Commission is committed to continue its support to the excellent work of the Network, in order to drive continually improving performance by our employment services.” A particularly innovative element of this cooperation is the Benchlearning project, allowing employment services to compare their practices on the basis of indicators and learn from each other. In addition, the unique PES Knowledge Centre provides a wealth of information on the organisation of Public Employment Services in Europe and the services they offer, and many of these outputs have a wider benefit for researchers and decision-makers in the fight against unemployment. State aid: Commission approves €7.28 million rescue aid to Marche Ancona airport in Italy

The European Commission has approved Italian plans to grant temporary rescue aid of €7.28 million to Aerodrica SpA, the operator of the regional airport “Aeroporto delle Marche” in Ancona, Italy. The Commission found that the planned measure complies with EU state aid rules, in particular the criteria set out in the Commission’s Guidelines on state aid for rescuing and restructuring companies in difficulty, because it is limited in time and scope. The aid will consist of a repayable loan at an appropriate interest rate and will meet the airport’s liquidity needs for the next six months. In its assessment the Commission also took into consideration that many businesses in the Marche region depend on the activity of the airport and that the airport operates 24 hours a day, which is important for international civil protection operations, and in particular for interventions managed by the European Civil Protection Mechanism. Italy has committed to notify to the Commission within four months a restructuring plan for Aerodrica SpA aimed at ensuring its future viability. On this basis, the Commission concluded that the rescue aid is in line with the Guidelines. More information will be available on the Commission’s competition website, in the public case register under the case number SA.48050. The new European Consensus on Development – EU and Member States sign joint strategy to eradicate poverty

The jointly developed strategy, in the form of a Joint Statement, was signed today during the annual two-day European Development Days by the President of the European Parliament Antonio Tajani, the Prime Minister of Malta Joseph Muscat, on behalf of the Council and Member States, the President of the European Commission Jean-Claude Juncker and the High Representative/Vice President Federica Mogherini.

The new European Consensus on Development constitutes a comprehensive common framework for European development cooperation. For the first time, it applies in its entirety to all European Union Institutions and all Member States, which commit to work more closely together.

The new Consensus strongly reaffirms that poverty eradication remains the primary objective of European development policy. It fully integrates the economic, social and environmental dimensions of sustainable development. In doing so, it aligns European development action with the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development which is also a cross-cutting dimension for the EU Global Strategy.

European leaders committed to three areas:

1. They recognise the strong interlinkages between the different elements of such action. This includes development and peace and security, humanitarian aid, migration, environment and climate, as well as cross cutting-elements, such as: youth; gender equality; mobility and migration; sustainable energy and climate change; investment and trade; good governance, democracy, the rule of law and human rights; innovative engagement with more advanced developing countries; and mobilising and using domestic resources.
2. The new Consensus furthermore takes a comprehensive approach to means of implementation, combining traditional development aid with other resources, as well as sound policies and a strengthened approach to policy coherence, recalling that EU development cooperation always has to be seen in the context of Europe's partner countries' own efforts. The Consensus provides the basis for the EU and its Member States to engage in more innovative forms of development financing, leveraging private sector investments and mobilising additional domestic resources for development.
3. The EU and its Member States will create better-tailored partnerships with a broader range of stakeholders, including civil society, and partner countries at all stages of development. They will further improve their implementation on the ground by working better together and taking into account their respective comparative advantages.

Background

Europe is a global leader in development, being the world's biggest provider of Official Development Assistance. The new European Consensus on Development was agreed jointly by all European Institutions and all EU Member States in an open and transparent manner, also in consultation with other partners. It is the EU's response to today's global trends and challenges, aligning EU external action to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

The 2030 Agenda was adopted by the international community in September 2015, and includes at its core the 17 Sustainable Development Goals and associated targets, which run to 2030. Along with the other international summits and conferences held in 2015 in Addis Ababa and in Paris, the international community has an ambitious new frame for all countries to work together on shared challenges. For the first time, the SDGs are universally applicable to all countries and the EU is committed to be a frontrunner in implementing them.

On 22 November 2016, the European Commission proposed its ideas for a strategic approach for achieving sustainable development in Europe and around the world, including a Commission proposal for a new Consensus. Since then the European Parliament, the Council under the Maltese Presidency, and the Commission have engaged in an intensive series of inter-institutional discussions aimed at agreeing to a new collective vision for development policy which responds to the 2030 Agenda and other global challenges.

Europe is a frontrunner when it comes to sustainable development and the 2030 Agenda, through external and other policies.

Remarques de la Haute Représentante / Vice-Présidente Federica M

Bamako, le 5 juin 2017

Seule la version écrite fait foi!

Premièrement, je voudrais dire que la coopération entre l'Union européenne et le G5 Sahel, a été lors des deux dernières années vraiment unique, c'est devenu un partenariat stratégique.

Nous nous sommes vus deux fois à Bruxelles, la première fois ici dans la région, et je voudrais vous remercier Monsieur le Ministre [Abdoulaye Diop, Ministres des Affaires étrangères du Mali], remercier tout le pays, le gouvernement, les autorités pour avoir organisé cette importante réunion ministérielle, ici à Bamako. C'est ma première visite au Mali mais la troisième visite en deux ans dans le Sahel; la dixième en Afrique subsaharienne; et cela témoigne de l'importance de ce partenariat pour l'Union européenne et pour moi personnellement.

Comme vous l'avez dit, nous partageons la même région du monde; il est clair que ce qui se passe ici au Sahel a des conséquences en Europe, et l'inverse est vrai aussi. C'est pour cela que nous avons commencé depuis deux ans à travailler vraiment ensemble, dans les domaines de la sécurité, du changement climatique, du développement durable et aussi de la prévention des crimes, du terrorisme mais aussi de toutes sortes de trafic, y compris d'êtres humains.

Nous sommes ensemble aussi avec un esprit de partenariat dans la gestion des flux migratoires et surtout pour sauver des vies – des vies de jeunes Africains – qui trop souvent encore meurent dans le désert ou dans la Méditerranée. Nous sommes ensemble pour éviter que cela se produise encore.

Je voudrais vraiment saluer la décision du G5 Sahel d'établir une force conjointe pendant le dernier sommet en février. Pour nous, c'est un signal clair de la volonté des pays du G5 Sahel de prendre en main leur propre sécurité; nous pensons que c'est le bon choix à faire. Premièrement, parce que vous connaissez bien le territoire, ses dynamiques; ensuite parce qu'une force conjointe avec une très forte coopération régionale et coordination avec les autres opérations qui sont présentes sur le territoire est – nous le pensons – la meilleure façon de faire face aux défis du terrorisme mais aussi de contrôler le territoire quand il s'agit de combattre les trafics de toute sorte, que ce soit de drogues, d'armes ou d'êtres humains.

C'est pour cela que l'Union européenne comme premier partenaire du G5 Sahel peut annoncer aujourd'hui une contribution de 50 millions pour soutenir le déploiement de la force conjointe. Cela va être une contribution qui va arriver vite, et qui je l'espère va montrer la bonne direction aussi aux autres partenaires du G5 Sahel.

L'Union européenne est fière d'être la première à soutenir ce projet; nous allons le faire non seulement par nos moyens financiers – 50 millions c'est en tous cas une contribution significative parce que nous croyons fermement dans le fait que c'est un investissement dans notre propre sécurité et nous le faisons en partenariat – c'est notre façon de travailler sur la sécurité.

L'Union européenne est clairement aux côtés des pays du G5 [Sahel], du G5 [Sahel] en tant que tel, parce que pour nous, la sécurité, la prospérité, le développement du Sahel est un facteur clé de la sécurité, du développement, de la stabilité de l'Europe. Nous sommes vraiment partenaires, amis, voisins, frères et sœurs et cela pour nous, se traduit par un engagement concret, et je suis sûre que dans les années et les mois à venir, nous allons continuer à épanouir ce partenariat que nous avons lancé il y a quelques années et qui fonctionne – je pense – de façon excellente.

Mon ami le Ministre [Abdoulaye Diop] disait, notre partenariat est vraiment un laboratoire pour nous, de la façon dont l'Union européenne peut soutenir avec tous les moyens qu'elle a – militaires, de développement, de soutien économique, mais aussi d'accompagnement d'une certaine politique, je pense à la création d'emplois pour les jeunes, à l'éducation, à la bonne gouvernance, à la résilience- une région stratégique.

Je voudrais terminer par remercier encore une fois le Mali, le Ministre [Abdoulaye Diop] et toute la population du pays pour leur excellente hospitalité mais aussi un excellent leadership, pour avoir vraiment guidé le G5 ces derniers mois, dans une direction très positive, très courageuse et l'Union européenne est et sera toujours avec vous.

Merci.

Q. One question about the rupture of the diplomatic relations between Saudi Arabia and Qatar, what is the EU reaction?

On the very worrying developments on relations between Qatar and some of the countries in the Gulf and around the Gulf – in the region. This is something I have been following very closely from here this morning, from early morning. For us, each and every country around the region is a very important partner. We have always believed that cooperation among them and between each of them and the international community including the European Union is key for security and stability in the region and beyond and for each and every of the crises that region is facing – starting from Syria, but not only. We continue to believe that regional cooperation and dialogue is the way to maintain or build a cooperative approach. By the way, here we are celebrating a successful regional cooperation. We intend, as European Union, to maintain excellent relations with each of the countries in the region and we sincerely hope and I would invite all of them to avoid any further escalation in these hours and solve any issue through dialogue and political talks.

Q. Y aura-t-il des livraisons de matériel militaire pour le déploiement de la force conjointe?

Nous allons contribuer financièrement à la force conjointe et nous allons aussi – comme je l'ai expliqué – utiliser la présence militaire de l'Union européenne dans la région y compris ici à Bamako pour accompagner la création de la force et son déploiement efficace sur le territoire, surtout par un travail d'accompagnement, de conseil, de formation et de soutien financier. Il y a en effet un autre volet de soutien aux activités de la force conjointe qu'il faut encore explorer dans les détails mais qui va être disponible. Tout le travail que nous faisons avec le financement pour le développement peut être ciblé à faire retourner surtout les services de base dans les zones qui auront bénéficiées des activités militaires de la force – c'est-à-dire les zones libérées des forces terroristes pourront bénéficier aussi d'un soutien non-militaire mais proprement civil, de développement, de qualité de la vie, de sorte que la population locale puisse avoir accès aux services de base de façon immédiate et positive.

C'est ma première visite au Mali mais la troisième visite en deux ans dans le Sahel; la dixième en Afrique subsaharienne; et cela témoigne de l'importance de ce partenariat pour l'Union européenne et pour moi personnellement.

Comme vous l'avez dit, nous partageons la même région du monde; il est clair que ce qui se passe ici au Sahel a des conséquences en Europe, et l'inverse est vrai aussi. C'est pour cela que nous avons commencé depuis deux ans à travailler vraiment ensemble, dans les domaines de la sécurité, du changement climatique, du développement durable et aussi de la prévention des crimes, du terrorisme mais aussi de toutes sortes de trafic, y compris d'êtres humains.

Nous sommes ensemble aussi avec un esprit de partenariat dans la gestion des flux migratoires et surtout pour sauver des vies – des vies de jeunes Africains – qui trop souvent encore meurent dans le désert ou dans la Méditerranée. Nous sommes ensemble pour éviter que cela se produise encore.

Je voudrais vraiment saluer la décision du G5 Sahel d'établir une force conjointe pendant le dernier sommet en février. Pour nous, c'est un signal clair de la volonté des pays du G5 Sahel de prendre en main leur propre sécurité; nous pensons que c'est le bon choix à faire. Premièrement, parce que vous connaissez bien le territoire, ses dynamiques; ensuite parce qu'une force conjointe avec une très forte coopération régionale et coordination avec les autres opérations qui sont présentes sur le territoire est – nous le pensons – la meilleure façon de faire face aux défis du terrorisme mais aussi de contrôler le territoire quand il s'agit de combattre les trafics de toute sorte, que ce soit de drogues, d'armes ou d'êtres humains.

C'est pour cela que l'Union européenne comme premier partenaire du G5 Sahel peut annoncer aujourd'hui une contribution de 50 millions pour soutenir le déploiement de la force conjointe. Cela va être une contribution qui va arriver vite, et qui je l'espère va montrer la bonne direction aussi aux autres partenaires du G5 Sahel.

L'Union européenne est fière d'être la première à soutenir ce projet; nous allons le faire non seulement par nos moyens financiers – 50 millions c'est en tous cas une contribution significative parce que nous croyons fermement dans le fait que c'est un investissement dans notre propre sécurité et nous le faisons en partenariat – c'est notre façon de travailler sur la sécurité.

L'Union européenne est clairement aux côtés des pays du G5 [Sahel], du G5 [Sahel] en tant que tel, parce que pour nous, la sécurité, la prospérité, le développement du Sahel est un facteur clé de la sécurité, du développement, de la stabilité de l'Europe. Nous sommes vraiment partenaires, amis, voisins, frères et sœurs et cela pour nous, se traduit par un engagement concret, et je suis sûre que dans les années et les mois à venir, nous allons continuer à épanouir ce partenariat que nous avons lancé il y a quelques années et qui fonctionne – je pense – de façon excellente.

Mon ami le Ministre [Abdoulaye Diop] disait, notre partenariat est vraiment un laboratoire pour nous, de la façon dont l'Union européenne peut soutenir avec tous les moyens qu'elle a – militaires, de développement, de soutien économique, mais aussi d'accompagnement d'une certaine politique, je pense à la création d'emplois pour les jeunes, à l'éducation, à la bonne gouvernance, à la résilience- une région stratégique.

Je voudrais terminer par remercier encore une fois le Mali, le Ministre [Abdoulaye Diop] et toute la population du pays pour leur excellente hospitalité mais aussi un excellent leadership, pour avoir vraiment guidé le G5 ces derniers mois, dans une direction très positive, très courageuse et l'Union européenne est et sera toujours avec vous.

Merci.

Q. One question about the rupture of the diplomatic relations between Saudi Arabia and Qatar, what is the EU reaction?

On the very worrying developments on relations between Qatar and some of the countries in the Gulf and around the Gulf – in the region. This is something I have been following very closely from here this morning, from early morning. For us, each and every country around the region is a very important partner. We have always believed that cooperation among them and between each of them and the international community including the European Union is key for security and stability in the region and beyond and for each and every of the crises that region is facing – starting from Syria, but not only. We continue to believe that regional cooperation and dialogue is the way to maintain or build a cooperative approach. By the way, here we are celebrating a successful regional cooperation. We intend, as European Union, to maintain excellent relations with each of the countries in the region and we sincerely hope and I would invite all of them to avoid any further escalation in these hours and solve any issue through dialogue and political talks.

Q. Y aura-t-il des livraisons de matériel militaire pour le déploiement de la force conjointe?

Nous allons contribuer financièrement à la force conjointe et nous allons aussi – comme je l'ai expliqué – utiliser la présence militaire de l'Union européenne dans la région y compris ici à Bamako pour accompagner la création de la force et son déploiement efficace sur le territoire, surtout par un travail d'accompagnement, de conseil, de formation et de soutien financier. Il y a en effet un autre volet de soutien aux activités de la force conjointe qu'il faut encore explorer dans les détails mais qui va être disponible. Tout le travail que nous faisons avec le financement pour le développement peut être ciblé à faire retourner surtout les services de base dans les zones qui auront bénéficiées des activités militaires de la force – c'est-à-dire les zones libérées des forces terroristes pourront bénéficier aussi d'un soutien non-militaire mais proprement civil, de développement, de qualité de la vie, de sorte que la population locale puisse avoir accès aux services de base de façon immédiate et positive.
