

Extra funding for early support hubs

Thousands of children and young people will benefit from expanded mental health hubs as the government will offer more funding for local communities.