

Extreme heat: Environment Agency calls on public to help protect fish

Environment Agency officers are on the ground protecting fisheries across England as temperatures soar.