

Family disputes to be resolved faster through extra £170 million investment into the justice system

Families will benefit from new early legal advice to spare them stress of court.