

Five year project to sell surplus public sites exceeds its target

A government pledge to raise billions of pounds by selling off surplus land and buildings which were no longer needed by the public sector has been exceeded.