

Forestry apprentices use cutting-edge technology to log progress

Scotland's Rural College is the first institute in the UK to have used cutting-edge technology to log students' progression towards operating forest machinery.