

Further review period for A27 Arundel improvements

Highways England has started an additional four-week period for people who responded to last year's consultation on improving the A27 near Arundel to add to their responses.