

GAD's work with universities

News story

The special feature details the work of the Government Actuary's Department with universities.

We take an in-depth look at GAD's collaboration with universities on projects, events and work placements. This enables future actuaries, analysts and data scientists to gain an understanding of what GAD does while providing valuable input into the department's work. Special feature: GAD's work with universities

Published 16 September 2021