

Gemma: flying high as a space scientist

The career of our chief scientist of space weather was literally written in the stars.