

Global community must take collective action on migration

The Home Secretary, on his visit to the USA, says international co-operation is essential in preventing illegal and unsustainable migration.