

'Good progress' made in tackling unacceptable behaviour in the military

Good progress has been made introducing new measures to clamp down on unacceptable behaviour in the military, an independent review released today has concluded.