

Government announces new proposals to further the UK's reputation as a global destination for architects

New consultation considers amendments to promote and maintain standards of competence amongst architects registered in the UK in relation to building safety.