

Government Chemist programme survey

News story

The Government Chemist is running a survey to evaluate the economical, industrial and social benefits of the Government Chemist Programme

The Government Chemist plays a crucial role in the UK's food and feed system in both its statutory and advisory capacities.

During summer 2022, the Government Chemist is running a survey to evaluate the economical, industrial and social benefits of the Government Chemist Programme.

The online survey is now open and we would appreciate your views which would support us on this work to better understand our impact.

If you would like to engage further and participate in a more detailed conversation, please contact us:

Published 29 July 2022