

Government drive to phase out smoking and tackle youth vaping attracts large response

Over 12,000 responses so far submitted on government proposals to create first 'smokefree generation', less than halfway through consultation period.