

Government joins forces with Liverpool to transform city's rail network

Plans for a fully integrated public transport system in Merseyside one step closer as Liverpool's new, government-funded rail station opens.