

Government launches public consultation to make outdoor measures for high streets permanent

Proposed planning reforms to support hospitality businesses, markets and historic visitor attractions so that outdoor space can be used more easily.