

Government plans to boost dental workforce by cutting red tape

New proposals would give General Dental Council powers to provisionally register dentists trained overseas to start delivering care as quickly as possible