

Government pledges £500,000 to boost British services exports

The government is committing £500,000 to help UK professionals such as architects, auditors and accountants export their services around the world