

Government publishes £2 billion vision for engineering biology to revolutionise medicine, food and environmental protection

Science Minister announces national vision for engineering biology, setting out government's £2 billion plan to seize the potential of engineering biology.