

Government reveals plans to divert thousands of civil legal disputes away from court

Individuals and businesses would be helped to resolve legal disputes through free mediation under government proposals unveiled today (26 July).