

Government sets out next steps for opposite-sex civil partnerships

The government has published plans for extending civil partnerships to opposite-sex couples by the end of this year.