

Government sets out plan for new era of clean electricity

Government delivers on the Prime Minister's Plan for Change to build an energy system that can bring down bills for households and businesses for good.