

Government to invest further in mentoring, and employment opportunities to help reduce offending and violent crime

Thousands of young people at risk of falling out of education, employment or training once they leave school will be given career mentoring and life skills training to help them succeed in life.