Grenfell inquiry "too narrow" says Jeremy Corbyn in letter to PM

Jeremy Corbyn MP, Leader of the Labour Party, has today (Friday) written to the Prime Minister asking for the terms of the Grenfell fire inquiry to be broadened and for residents to be heard throughout the process.

In his letter, Jeremy expresses concern at the narrow terms of reference, saying: "it is clear to me from talking to Grenfell residents that their concerns and questions stretch beyond these narrow terms."

The Labour Leader suggests conducting a "two part inquiry, with the first part looking at the specific issues around Grenfell and reporting back quickly and the second part looking at the national issues."

Jeremy also urges an interim report, writing: "ongoing uncertainty and long delays would add to the trauma Grenfell residents and victims' families have already experienced."

Jeremy also asks the Prime Minister to commit to taking action now on areas not related to the outcome of the inquiry, including identifying all those missing or dead, amnesty for victims concerned at immigration status, providing permanent in-borough accommodation to all residents, committing upfront funding for councils, and overhauling building regulations.
