

Harnessing daffodils' flower power on St David's Day

The national flower of Wales has found a new role this St David's Day – helping scientists to better understand the value of plant extracts as an alternative to antibiotics in animal feed.