

HKMA clarifies rumours on cash withdrawal limit

The following is issued on behalf of the Hong Kong Monetary Authority:

In response to rumours that the Hong Kong Monetary Authority (HKMA) would cap daily cash withdrawal from banks, the HKMA today (November 11) reiterates that the message is totally fake and unfounded. The Hong Kong banking system is robust and sound, with ample liquidity to meet the needs of the public.

The HKMA urges the public to be cautious of rumours and verify information carefully.