

Home Secretary announces major policing reforms

An ambitious programme of reform to policing has been unveiled by the Home Secretary, marking the start of a new partnership between government and policing.