

Hong Kong Police's National Security Department arrested three persons for suspected contravention of National Security Law

After in-depth investigation, the National Security Department of the Hong Kong Police Force (NSD) launched enforcement operations in various districts yesterday (September 20) and arrested three members of an organisation. The three members, two men and a woman aged 18 to 20, were arrested for suspected conspiracy to incite the commission by other persons of the offence of subversion, contravening Article 23 of the Hong Kong National Security Law.

Officers of NSD seized large quantities of exhibits at the warehouse of the organisation and the residence of the arrested persons. Seizures include electrical appliances and suspected supply to be sent to persons in custody.

All arrestees are being detained for further enquiries. Investigation is underway and further arrests may be made.
