

Hundreds of thousands of Brits in rural villages and towns to benefit from UK government broadband boost

Around 131,000 homes and businesses across the country will no longer be stuck with slow internet speeds as the UK government's rollout of gigabit connectivity races ahead.