

Inspection surge to crack down on water sector pollution

Water company inspections will more than quadruple as the government cracks down on poor performing companies.