

Intimidation in Public Life: letters from the Conservative Party

The Committee on Standards in Public Life has received correspondence from the Conservative Party regarding progress made against the Committee's recommendations, following its review on intimidation in public life.