

Labour Department occupational health public talk cancelled

In view of the latest local epidemic situation, the Labour Department announced today (January 7) that its occupational health public talk entitled "Strategies for the Prevention of Occupational Diseases" scheduled to be held on January 14 at the Lecture Hall of the Hong Kong Space Museum has been cancelled to reduce the flow of people and social contact. Enrolled participants will be informed of the cancellation.