

Laws passed to reduce strike disruption and protect public services

New laws to reduce the impact of industrial action on rail, border security and ambulance services while balancing the ability of workers to strike.