

LCSD to launch two talks on art of Kunqu opera in August

The Leisure and Cultural Services Department (LCSD) will present two talks on the art of Kunqu opera under the theme "In Memory of Our Leading Lights in the Kunqu World" in August. Through introducing four important figures in the field of Kunqu who passed away earlier this year, the talks will review these figures' artistic achievements and contributions so that audiences can learn more about the unique artistic features and development of this traditional Chinese opera genre.

Kunqu opera has been described as "the mother of Chinese operas", and was listed by UNESCO as one of the "Masterpieces of the Oral and Intangible Heritage of Humanity" in 2001. The two talks on the art of Kunqu opera will be hosted by seasoned Kunqu art researcher Cheung Lai-chun, with details as follows:

Topic: Zhang Jiqing and Hua Wenyi: Charismatic Divas in Contemporary Kunqu

Date and time: August 14 (Sunday), 3pm

Famous Kunqu performance artists Zhang Jiqing and Hua Wenyi made the opera characters in the hearts of audiences come alive with their own distinctive styles, and left behind countless classics. The talk will revisit their brilliant portrayal of Du Liliang, a female protagonist of "The Peony Pavilion", to provide a glimpse of their artistic achievements.

Topic: Gu Duhuang and Koo Siu-sun: Faithful Defenders of Kunqu Heritage

Date and time: August 27 (Saturday), 3pm

Gu Duhuang, who was hailed as an "eminent literary figure of Jiangnan", and Koo Siu-sun, who was a prominent cultural figure in Hong Kong, were devoted to the preservation of the art of Kunqu for decades. This session will review the contributions and efforts of the two scholars in various aspects such as directing, scriptwriting and research on Kunqu opera, thereby enabling audiences to gain a better understanding of the importance of inheriting and preserving Kunqu, a gem of Chinese culture.

Cheung, the host of the talks, has been dedicated to promoting the art of Kunqu opera over the years. She learned Kunqu under Kunqu opera virtuoso Le Yiping in 1988, and was a part-time instructor in the Department of Chinese Language and Literature of the Hong Kong Baptist University, and taught courses on the art of Kunqu. She is currently a member of the Kunqu Research and Development Committee of the Hong Kong Institute for Promotion of Chinese Culture and Chairperson of the Concordia Kunqu Society of Hong Kong.

The two talks in Cantonese will take place at AC2, Level 4, Administration Building, Hong Kong Cultural Centre. Each talk will last for about one and a half hours. Admission is free. Telephone registration is required and can be made by calling 2268 7267 from 10am today (July 28). Limited seats are available on a first-come, first-served basis.
