

LCSD's In Your Sight, In Your Mind 2.0 programme to enable public to enjoy wonders of magic (with photos)

Following the success of the In Your Sight, In Your Mind magic performance earlier this year, the Leisure and Cultural Services Department will roll out In Your Sight, In Your Mind 2.0 from this November to January next year. In addition to contemporary magic acts, the upcoming show will incorporate more elements of science and technology, offering the public more opportunities to enjoy the wonders of magic both visually and mentally. Admission to all performances is free.

Performed by local magician Zenneth Kok, the programme will display the unique form of digital magic and mentalism. Kok will make use of video, animation and the screen to demonstrate digital magic, opening new doors to creative expression for magic shows. In addition, he will make use of his knowledge of psychology and statistics to induce audiences to think actively and make choices so as to predict audiences' behavior. Kok has more than 20 years of stage performing and teaching experience, and has created more than 200 original tricks.

Five performances of In Your Sight, In Your Mind 2.0 will be presented in Cantonese and one in English. Details of the performances are as below:
