Commemoration

The UK Commission on Covid Commemoration was established on 21 July to secure a broad consensus from across the whole of the United Kingdom on how we commemorate the COVID-19 pandemic and mark this distinctive period in our history at a national and community level.

As part of its work, the Commission is keen to hear about existing and planned Covid commemoration activities across the United Kingdom. Please complete this short survey to inform the Commission of Covid commemoration activities near you. This could include activities such as the opening of a memorial garden or an event to say thank you to those involved in the response.
