

Location data can help deliver the safe rollout of autonomous vehicles

New Geospatial Commission report highlights the role location data will have in the safe deployment of self-driving road vehicles.