

Major defence reforms launched, with new National Armaments Director to tackle waste and boost industry

The biggest reform of the Ministry of Defence in over 50 years to fix what the Public Accounts Committee calls the 'broken' defence procurement system and to strengthen UK Defence, has been launched by the Defence Secretary.