

MHRA instructs health organisations to prepare now for new measures to reduce ongoing serious harms of valproate

Other effective medicines are available for epilepsy and bipolar disorder and valproate should only be used if these don't work or aren't suitable for an individual patient