

MHRA update on new study on risk in children born to men taking valproate

The new safety measures being introduced in UK are for male and female patients