

Military finish up training to start fuel deliveries as government extends support to industry

UK government announces additional measures to help ensure the stability of the UK supply chain.