

My Intervention in the Public Order Debate

John Redwood (Wokingham) (Conservative):

I am grateful for what my right hon. and learned Friend is seeking to do. Can she confirm that there could, indeed, be cases in which protesters stop one getting to hospital for an emergency operation or procedure, or stop a woman who is about to give birth from getting to hospital in a hurry, and that they are risking people's lives?

Suella Braverman, Secretary of State for the Home Office:

Their tactics are dangerous. They are putting people's lives at risk by stopping ambulances getting to emergencies and stopping people getting to hospital appointments. They are stopping people getting to work, school and funerals. The instances are infinite, and the disruption must stop.
