

My Parliamentary office staff

I have been told that a few people have been aggressive with my staff who are trying to provide answers at a time of great demand. Please understand they are trying to do their best for you. Keep your anger for a strong email to me or the government if you must let off steam about the current difficult situation.