

National Drought Group discusses preparations for extreme weather

Water resources are healthy following the wettest 12 months in England since 1836