

New £88 million sensing equipment to protect UK Armed Forces

New technology with capability to detect, identify and monitor the presence of toxic industrial chemicals and chemical warfare agents to be operational by 2028.