

New and improved National Security and Investment Act set to be up and running

Businesses and investors are being urged to get ready for changes to the UK's strengthened national security regime which will commence fully on 4 January 2022.