

New deep space radar will transform UK security

A new landmark radar initiative will increase UK security by being able to better detect, track and identify objects in deep space.