

New explosive door-breaching technology brought to market

The design for a safer and more effective way to breach doors is based on research by Dstl and has been licensed to a specialist UK company.